Hi Tim:

I have attached a basic estimate to rebuild the West pump at Sand Beach Conservancy District, replaced until we pull it out of the pit and pump from the late 1990s. It could be much

Like we talked about, we don't know exactly how many components of the pump will need to be → take it apart. I based the quotation on a general rebuild, with what we typically find in a → less, or it could be more, though I don't anticipate this.

We will take the pump apart, sandblast, re-coat below the mounting plate with Coal Tar Epoxy, replace all bearings, replace the shaft if it is badly worn.

Also, we will likely replace the bearings in the electric motor, since they have a lot of hours on them as well.

We can remove and re-install the pump with our boom truck.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thank you,
